

Internet Policy

The West Branch Public Library provides free access to the Internet to all patrons. The library has no control over the information accessed through the Internet and is not responsible for its content.

Intellectual Freedom

Just as the library does not restrict access to other material forms and formats, we cannot refuse access to Internet content that someone else may deem objectionable. The principles of intellectual freedom that apply to the traditional monographic library also apply to the modern electronic access library.

Minors

As with other library materials, restriction of a child's access to the Internet is the responsibility of the parent/guardian. Neither the library or its staff are responsible for the Internet information selected and /or accessed by their child/children.

General

The library staff is not responsible for any technical difficulties arising while or from using the library's Internet access. The library does not guarantee or troubleshoot connections made on personal computers.

In accordance with Iowa State Law, it is unlawful to display offensive material in a public place where children may be present; this includes pornography, offensive language, and acts of violence. Any user viewing such material will be asked to leave the computer area immediately.

Use of the Library's Internet connection in an illegal, disruptive, or destructive manner may result in the loss of Internet or library privileges.

A time limit of 60 minutes may be imposed on the library's computers if another patron is awaiting computer access. The library may limit computer access to two (2) 60 minute sessions per day per patron.

Internet use through the library's mobile hotspots conforms to rules set out in this policy.
