

What's Your Risk Personality?

Check all that apply to you (There are no right or wrong answers here).

I am daring enough to:

- try parachuting
- dye my hair an unusual shade and leave it that way
- order and eat octopus
- jump off a tall cliff into water
- wear a funky shirt when no one else will
- spend my entire allowance to win the prize at a fair booth
- go to dinner with a blind date
- go to an event (dance) by myself in hopes of finding someone I know

I would take a calculated risk and:

- try a new menu item after a waitress recommended it
- dive into a pond if I could swim
- try yoga with a new friend, but not go to a class alone
- vacation in a new spot on a stranger's recommendation
- hike up a mountain after I've trained a few times elsewhere
- paint a room a bold color after seeing the color somewhere
- buy high-fashion shoes after a couple of friends have them
- buy a relative a unique gift after she/he admired similar items

I wouldn't want to risk making a mistake, so I would:

- not swim unless the water's depth is clearly marked
- order only what I like to eat
- go to the same resort for an annual vacations
- be with my friends for entertainment
- get the same haircut I've been wearing
- buy the brand of jeans I know
- choose my high school friend as a college roommate
- practice a piano song many times before a performance.

In which group do you have more checks? Where do you fall on the investor trait line below?

